Estonian Artist Turns Ancient Instruments into Heavy Metal

Submitted by Caroli Leiman on October 16, 2014 - 9:44am

“Lauri Õunapuu, an Estonian musician, plays traditional folk instruments in a heavy metal band, Metsatöll – the ancient Estonian word for what you should call a wolf if you don't want him to hear you, Õunapuu explained. This is just one of the ancient traditions of Estonia Õunapuu shared as a guest lecturer in Dr. Guntis Šmidchens’ introduction to folklore class,” written by Indra Ekmanis, a former student, in her blog.

People Involved: Guntis Šmidchens

News Category: Announcements

Related Fields: Scandinavian Area Studies, Baltic Studies, Estonian, Music, Performance Studies

Department of Scandinavian Studies
University of Washington
318 Raitt hall
Box 353420
Seattle, WA 98195-3420

Phone: (206) 543-0645
Fax: (206) 685-9173
uwscand@uw.edu

Source URL: https://scandinavian.washington.edu/news/2014/10/16/estonian-artist-turns-ancient-instruments-heavy-metal