University of Oslo

Oslo, the capital of Norway is located at the top of the 62 mile Oslo Fjord and is surrounded by sea, forest and mountains. You can reach many of the 40 islands in the Oslo Fjord by boat from downtown Oslo. The climate in Oslo is milder than the latitude suggests, and in the summer the temperature normally exceeds 70°F. Yet, the winters are cold enough to make Oslo a popular venue for skiing. The University of Oslo is the oldest, largest and most prestigious university in Norway, situated in the Norwegian capital of Oslo. As a student at the University of Oslo you will be living in a city that has all the benefits of a capital while never being more than a 15-minutes bus ride from the sea or the forests. Whether culture or nature, arts or sports is your scene, you will find it in Oslo!
